

A photograph of two women in mining safety gear, including hard hats and safety glasses, smiling. The woman on the left is wearing a white hard hat and a dark blue jacket over an orange shirt. The woman on the right is wearing a tan hard hat and a dark blue shirt. They are both holding a grey respirator mask. The background is dark and out of focus.

TASMANIAN WOMEN IN RESOURCES AWARDS 2017

The Tasmanian Women in Resources Awards recognise individuals and organisations working to build a world-class industry which provides attractive career opportunities and enhances the recognition and participation of women in the mining and resource sector.

2016 Tasmanian Women in Resources finalists with TMEC President, Ray Mostogl.

These awards recognise the important role women play in the mining and resource sector through five key categories:

Exceptional Woman in Tasmanian Resources

Gender Diversity Champion in Tasmanian Resources

Excellence in Diversity Programs and Performance

Outstanding Tasmanian Tradeswoman,
Operator or Technician

Exceptional Young Woman in Tasmanian Resources

Each category winner in the Tasmanian Women in Resources Awards 2017 will automatically be put forward as the Tasmanian Finalist in the 2017 National Women in Resources Awards.

ENTRY DETAILS

tasminerals.com.au/2017-tasmanian-women-in-resources-awards or contact Alison Hilder, Tasmanian Minerals & Energy Council on 0439 033 421

The National Women in Resources Awards is a partnership between the Minerals Council of Australia and its Northern Territory and Victorian branches, the Chamber of Minerals & Energy WA, the Queensland Resources Council, the NSW Minerals Council, the SA Chamber of Mines & Energy, and the Tasmanian Minerals & Energy Council. The awards are also supported by the various AusIMM state WIMnet (Women in Mining Network) groups.